This month, Mark Craven, Church Warden, writes:

I count myself very fortunate to live in Brookwood. The School Fair in June is one of the best examples of community activity, with plenty of willing volunteers. Yes, teachers and staff have enthusiasm, skill...and patience (that was seen from the arena displays) but it's taking the effort to go that "extra mile" that sometimes creates that broader benefit for others. When kids leave with a craft they've made or a painted face, they take with them so much more. It's like the DNA... of the painter or crafter that rubs off... on parents or friends.

Most of us lead busy lives, but over the coming months and years we will be pressured into re-evaluating how we conduct our lives, how we care for our world and how we interact with people, especially young people, because we have a duty to pass on our values as to how society should function. There are many who give their time to help bridge the gap between generations and it is wonderful to see children realise that they can learn from their elders, not just treat them as a source for the next material object. But we have to be honest with ourselves about the true cost of living and that's not just the financial aspect. We need to set good examples of standards and behaviour, but for this to be effective, we need close links with our children.

I've been reminded that we need time out to appreciate God's world around us and allow the opportunity to be refilled with His Spirit. We may even be able to see a clearer picture of how we fit into His plan.

Over the next month, consider how you interact with people locally, you may already be doing a great deal (some of it unnoticed by most), but if the opportunity arises, why not ask "can I help?" you may be surprised at the follow-on benefits... Have a very good month.
